FEAR SLAUGHTER OF ALL SWISS IN RUSSIA

BELIEVE SUPREME COURT WILL BALK LIQUOR DECISION

JUDGE HAND'S OPINION WOULD "WRECK LAW ENFORCEMENT."

INVOLVES STATES' Stand of Medical Fraternity Considered; Case Will be Expedited.

Washington. — Disappointments from the direction of New York are not discouraging the prohibition enforcement office of the federal government. The decision of Judge Knox that the provisions of the Volstead act regulating the amount of liquor a physician can prescribe is unconstitutional is the second attack from the empire state in a fortnight coming as it does on the heels of the action of the state legislature in repealing the Mulford liquor enforcement act.

But prohibition Commissioner Haynes takes a philosophical view of the situation and does not believe for a moment that the supreme court of the United States will uphold the opinion of Judge Knox.

Would Wreck Law. "If that decision were upheld," said Mr. Haynes today, "it would wreck law."

KILLING BOLSHEVIKI ENVOY STIRS NATION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lausanne. — The murder of M. Vorovsky, head of the Russian soviet delegation to the near east conference Thursday night by Maurice Alexander Conrad, a Swiss, who once served in the Russian army, has stirred Switzerland as has no single event since the assassination of Empress Elizabeth of Austria at Geneva in 1908.

Conrad, who was seized by the police in the hotel Cecil, after he had killed Vorovsky and wounded two attaches of the Russian delegation, continues to maintain that he acted alone to avenge his father and uncle for mistreatment they received at the hands of the bolsheviks during the "red terror."

Not Official Delegate. The general impression in Near East conference circles is that the excitement caused by Thursday night's events will not directly affect the course of the negotiations, because Vorovsky was not regarded as an official Russian delegate. In as much as the soviet government was not invited to participate in the proceedings.

Vorovsky, with Hermann Ahrens, the Russian press agent at the first Lausanne conference, and J. D. Dikowski, Vorovsky's secretary, were at a table in the hotel dining room when the tragedy occurred. Conrad, who was sitting not far from the Russian party, leisurely finished his own meal, arose from his chair and, walking toward the three men, opened fire with a revolver.

Bullet in Neck. Vorovsky received the first bullet in his neck and lay across the table, dying almost instantly. Ahrens, drawing his weapon, was restrained from firing by a waiter, as Dikowski was shot twice in the abdomen. Almost immediately Conrad fired two bullets into Ahrens' thigh and one in the shoulder.

He then sought out the proprietor of the hotel, to whom he turned over his revolver with the announcement that he would await the police.

Apprehension for the safety of the Swiss residents of Russia, numbering about 800, is expressed by the public and the press in consequence of Vorovsky's assassination.

When Vorovsky attacked the Swiss government because a bolshevik courier, Dmitriy Mesow, was refused a visa by the Swiss minister in Berlin, it was announced no official action would be taken against Vorovsky, particularly as the Swiss government was anxious to avoid endangering Swiss business men who went to Russia to re-open trade relations.

Refused Protection. The police Friday declared they were not obliged to give special protection to Vorovsky, as he was not an official delegate to the conference, but that nevertheless the chief of police only a few days ago visited him and asked if he desired protection. It is said.

County Club Women Have Successful Meeting at Evansville; Review Work

A good representation of the rural women's clubs of Rock county attended the all-day get-together meeting in the Congregational church, Evansville, Thursday.

Eighty men and women sat down to the noon luncheon and listened to a short program. W. C. Patterson, president of the Rock County Farm Bureau, pledged cooperation in any enterprise undertaken by the rural women's groups. Short talks were given by County Agent R. T. Glasco, Hugh Tinningway and Lewis C. French.

Miss Mary Brady, of the Milwaukee county school of agriculture, followed with an address telling of the work done by rural clubs in Marathon county during the time she served as home agent there, and advocated the formation of a county federation of rural clubs.

Afternoon Session. The principal speakers at the afternoon women's session were Miss Cora Irene Leiby, Chicago, education al secretary for the Geosard company, and Miss Gladys Stillman, Madison, assistant state home economics leader. The demonstration by Miss Leiby aroused much interest. Mrs. Stillman urged that the groups organized by Miss Leiby during the past two years should not disband because they are not to have the services of a home agent during the next year. She explained that the county committee and the university extension stand ready to assist in planning the club programs to be (Continued on Page 16)

Mexico City Kidnapping Balks Authorities of Two Countries

Mrs. Esther Black Parmelee, her husband, Charles R. Parmelee, and their son, Charles R., when he was a babe.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Dallas, Tex. — Armed men are securing the bad lands of two nations in effort to discover the whereabouts of Charles R. Parmelee, Jr., four-year-old kidnaped from a home in Mexico City.

The boy is the son of Charles R. Parmelee of the wealthy Chicago family and his wife, formerly Esther Black, daughter of a prominent financier here.

The parents are estranged. A divorce suit in which each is seeking to gain custody of the child now is pending.

The boy was taken from the home in Mexico City by a gang of armed thugs and no trace of his whereabouts has been found.

The territory between Mexico City and the border and the lonely wastes of Texas are being scoured by airplane observers for some trace of the hiding place of the boy and the gang.

Authorities are seeking Parmelee, believing that he may be held in the actual kidnapping occurred.

The wedding of Parmelee was the outcome of a romance born of the war days.

Sherman Indicted on Federal Charge

William Sherman, 42, Chicago bootlegger landed by the Janesville police department with a trunkful of liquor at the Lucile hotel here three weeks ago, was indicted on a federal liquor possession charge in United States district court at Chicago, Thursday, and was held for trial in federal court at Madison. His bond was fixed at $10,000.

The charge of transporting liquor was dropped. Sherman recently pleaded guilty in circuit court here to possession of liquor and was fined $250 by Judge George C. Grimm. His arrest on a federal charge followed.

This case will now be heard before Judge C. Z. Lusk.

United States District Attorney W. H. Dougherty and his assistant, Stanley H. Ryan, appeared against Sherman in Chicago, Thursday. Chief of Police Charles Newman was on the witness stand for nearly an hour and testified that Sherman had been arrested on a federal charge.

It was stated by Mr. Dougherty in the case that Sherman, who was present in court, he was not called to testify.

WISCONSIN TIMBER SLATED FOR DEATH IN TWENTY YEARS

STATE DENUNDED SOON IF CUTTING IS NOT CHECKED.

COMMITTEE HERE

U. S. Senators in Madison to Study Conditions, Looking to New Policy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison. — Timber is being cut in Wisconsin at a rate that, if maintained, will denude the state of its forests within 20 years, C. L. Harrington, superintendent of state forests and parks, told the United States senate committee on forest policy, meeting here Friday.

He urged the necessity for forest production in Wisconsin as "an important part in the development of the state," and pointed out the possibility of building up a national forest reserve through its timber section.

Present methods of forest exploitation "will not result in a desirable forest replacement on an acre to acre basis with land conditions and timber needs," Mr. Harrington declared.

Import Forest Products. The state forester told the committee that approximately 14 billion feet of merchantable timber remains in 25 northern Wisconsin counties. This timber, he said, is being cut at the rate of nearly one billion feet each year. He showed that the state, which formerly was the first state in lumber production and a large exporter of forest products, now is and will continue to be an importer of these products, despite its fairly large annual cut.

Cut-over Area Neglected. Timber cutting in Wisconsin, Mr. Harrington said, is now going on at (Continued on Page 8.)

MC KEEVER WINDS UP 10-DAY TOUR

Last Meeting in Ft. Atkinson Tonight—Campaign Great Success.

The McKeever ten day better community campaign, which is generally conceded to have been the most successful series of meetings of this type ever held in southern Wisconsin, will be concluded with a community mass meeting in the Fort Atkinson high school Friday night.

The campaign, arranged by the Gazette community service department, with the cooperation of practically every welfare organization in each community visited, has been a demonstration of what can be accomplished by united action.

McKeever came to Fort Atkinson with a talk to high and grammar grade pupils at 8:30 a. m. The Congregational church has hostesses in that church at noon, when Dr. McKeever gave his address on "Juvenile Welfare as a Business Enterprise." Sunday morning, the McKeever family, at 9:30 for a picnic supper and conference led by Dr. McKeever.

Welfare Workers Here. McKeever came to Ft. Atkinson, Thursday, was a big success in every way. Normal school students were addressed at the morning assembly hour; grammar grade and high school pupils heard talks in the evening; the round table conference on Sunday school work, held at the Congregational church at 4 p. m. was attended by 100; and an audience of 200 gathered in the Methodist church for the community mass meeting at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. McKeever went a little more deeply into the psychological basis of the problem than in his earlier fare work, than in addresses delivered previously during his ten day campaign in southern Wisconsin. The Whitewater program was sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce, normal and high schools, and the churches.

Farm Bureau Official Information

MORE ALFALFA IS NEEDED IN COUNTY

L. F. Graber Speaks at Demonstration and Evansville Bureau Meeting.

Alfalfa raising in Rock county was stimulated by the lecture and demonstration given by L. F. Graber on the 5th of May at the Evansville Bureau meeting. During the morning there was a demonstration on the Robinson farm where a field had been damaged by winter-killing in sections.

Although farmers generally know that alfalfa is the most valuable forage crop that can be raised and is the most profitable, an insufficient acreage is being produced in Rock county. Trouble has been experienced in getting good stands due to poor seed, lack of lime and unfavorable weather conditions.

Some of the points brought out by Prof. Graber were as follows: The land must be in proper shape, not sour, but with lime. Good seed, preferably hardy Grimm, should be used to prevent winter-killing. Delayed cutting to strengthen up the weak plants and it was declared "there is more produced from two cuttings than three."

"There is no reason why good alfalfa cannot be grown in Rock county and your growing of time is helping. The fact that it is hard to grow alfalfa and clover is because your land has been subjected to intense cultivation for years and the rain has leached out the lime from the top soil."

"The prices that farmers receive for their products as compared to prices on what they buy means that no farmer can afford to buy high protein feeds when he can raise it in alfalfa. This buying of feeds is a drain on the farm income. Alfalfa will keep that feed money in your pocket. Farmers must grow more of the right kind of feeds."

The need of alfalfa and legumes to the production of good livestock, production of milk was shown by the speaker.

"There is never going to be an overproduction of good feed or quality livestock. You cannot produce too much of either but you are producing too much timothy and crops that necessitate your buying costly feeds to make up the proper ration."

FARM PROGRESS IS BEING MADE

Considerable data on the history of 22 Wisconsin towns, with special reference to their agricultural progress, is contained in a new volume in the Wisconsin Domestic Book series, published by the Wisconsin Historical society, which is about to go to press. The towns are located in the following counties: Milwaukee, Racine, Waukesha, Walworth, Rock, Green, Dane, Iowa, Grant, Crawford, Columbia, Richland, Monroe, La Crosse, Fond du Lac, Manitowish and Door.

The new volume which will be called "Town Studies," will also contain sections on manufactures, villages, postoffices, schools, churches and population changes. All data presented has been taken from the records, and the outline of facts for each town is said to be more complete and reliable than anything previously published on this subject.

This volume of town studies reveals a good many points in the history of settlement, the effect of land speculation, the influence of different types of land, and the distinctive ways in which different racial groups have endeavored to win success in agriculture.

The prices that farmers receive for their products as compared to prices on what they buy means that no farmer can afford to buy high protein feeds when he can raise it in alfalfa. MARK TWAIN'S IDEA OF THE MERCHANT WHO DOES NOT ADVERTISE

Mark Twain, when editor of a small-town paper, received a letter from a superstitious subscriber, saying he had found a spider in his paper, asking whether that was a sign of good luck or bad. The humorist printed the following answer: "Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over the paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."—Herald W. BACK SHOW HERDS FOR 1923 CIRCUIT

Breeders to Cooperate in Sending Out Representative Exhibit.

Farmers and breeders will again seek to prove the "Rock County First Slogan" on the state fair circuit this fall.

Representative breeders meeting in the Gazette office Thursday night, favored extension of the county show herd plan in the taking out of herds of all breeds of livestock in the county and taking in a series of state fairs and, if conditions warrant, the National Dairy show.

"Nothing helped Rock county so much as did the state fair exhibit, and that made at the international" was the expression heard during the meeting. "Showing our livestock and field products will do the county more good than any one single project."

It was assumed that the Rock Holstein association and the Shorthorn association would again back show herds.

Form Other Herds

It is expected that representative herds of Brown Swines, Jerseys, Guernseys and bee Shorthorns, will be collected and sent out in the greatest stock exhibit ever sent out of any county.

Effort will be made to show the popular breeds of swine in the county and the county herds of Durocs, Poland, Berkshires and Hampshire are assured. Chester White breeders will be urged to join in on the plan.

The Rock county Farm Bureau will be urged to back the show herd project with a premium money to be pooled under an improved county co-operative system. The services of John C. Abbel, Richland Center, are being sought to take charge of the organization and showing the Rock county exhibits.

Endorse Plan

An early start is to be made in the selection and fitting of the show herd and entries secured in the state fair to win the sweepstakes banner.

The county Holstein association at their last meeting passed a resolution endorsing the county show herd plan and proposed concentrating the cattle at the fair grounds in July for proper fitting under the direction of Abbel.

"What we want to do is to search this county over for good show stock and form herds from as many farms as possible to make it county-wide and truly representative." It was stated during the meeting. "There is good assurance that the herds can win sufficient money to pay expenses and this is the best way to advertise Rock county."

Motorists Here Enjoy America's Best Gasoline

THE statement that "Motorists Here Enjoy America's Best Gasoline" means what it says. It is not a bombastic claim or a mere advertising slogan. In all America there is not a territory of anything like similar size that is consistently supplied with motor fuel equaling Wadhams True Gasoline.

Its position has been rightly earned and constantly strengthened by the vision, work, and "Emphatic Independence" of this organization—created, owned and managed by Wisconsin business men. The consistent use of

Wadhams True Gasoline

—gives solid advantages that appeal as strongly to practical-minded owners as to those seeking the limit of motor luxury. Wadhams-True Gasoline conserves motor welfare in these three important ways.

Its freedom from kerosene means protection of your lubricating oil from dilution through drippage of raw motor fuel.

It contains no free carbon to jam valves, scratch cylinder walls and steal power.

Its hair-trigger responsiveness and ready explosiveness insure instant firing, full power strokes, and elimination of the racking impulses of coarse fuel.

Its constant use is the soundest economy. Look for the Wadhams sign wherever you drive.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

395,962 FORDS ARE DELIVERED IN U. S. IN FIRST QUARTER

Out of the 129 different makes of cars manufactured in the U. S. today, fifty out of every one hundred of all these cars are FORDS.

Read the following letter received from the Ford Motor Company

Sales of Ford Cars and Trucks in the United States alone for the first quarter of 1923 reached the enormous total of 395,962, the greatest sales record in the history of the Ford Motor Company for a similar period of months. This is an increase of 135 per cent over the same months last year when Ford retail deliveries totaled 168,500.

Even these stupendous figures do not indicate the number of sales which could have been made had production facilities been greater. Every month dealer requirements have been far in excess of the company's manufacturing ability. For May dealers' orders reached the enormous figure of 300,000 Ford Cars and Trucks.

Following the expenditure of millions of dollars for new machinery, expansion of manufacturing units and enlargement of assembly plants, necessary to maintain the exacting high standards of Ford manufacture, production has been gradually increased since the first of the year until at present the company is operating on a schedule in excess of 6,500 completed Cars and Truck a day.

While reservations now are being put on early predictions that this year would see 3,000,000 cars and trucks produced in the United States, increasing demand for Ford Products will, all indications are, keep production at capacity rate for the remainder of the year, bringing it well over the million and a half mark by January 1 next, maintaining the established Ford percentage of producing as many cars and trucks as all other manufacturers combined.

Ford does not alone lead the world in production, but also leads the world in QUALITY and PRICE.

Compare the prices of the Ford Car—open and closed models—with the lowest other priced car on the market and you will find a great difference.

IF YOU WILL USE COMMON SENSE, WE CAN SAVE MONEY FOR YOU, by equipping your car with FIRESTONE Double Gum Dipped Cords.

Figure it out for yourself. A Firestone Cord costing around $36 runs 12,000 miles. A cut-price tire costing $25 seldom runs over 4,000 miles. 12,000 and 15,000 miles out of a tire, although good mileage, is not exceptional for a Firestone.

The mileage you will obtain combined with our service makes our tires the biggest tire value today.

WANT ALL SIDES AT MILK CONFAB

Hearing on Proposed Pasteurization Move Is Open to Public.

"The proposed ordinance necessitating pasteurization of all milk would safeguard the community, although it would cause hardships on some dealers," said Dr. Fred B. Welch, city health officer, Friday. "The board of health does not want to go into the matter blindly, and it is hoped that any who are opposed to the ordinance will appear before the council, Monday night at the city hall, when the matter will be discussed. The board wants to hear all sides of the question, as does the council, before any definite action is taken.

"The trend all over the country is for complete pasteurization of milk. If the ordinance is passed here, it should provide for good inspection of the plants, as even under the present ordinance which makes it necessary to pasteurize all milk not from tuberculin tested herds, much of the milk is poorly pasteurized. I do not approve of the flash system, which raises the milk to a higher temperature for a short period than the other system, raising it to a certain heat and keeping it there 15 or 20 minutes. The flash system often changes the milk and gives it that quality which makes many housewives prefer unpasteurized milk. This condition should not exist, for under the right regulations, and if done in the proper manner, pasteurized milk should be as good as any other. I hope the new ordinance will better this condition."

"In all my 14 years practice in Janesville, we have never had a milk epidemic, and only a little trouble has been caused by infected milk. However these epidemics come suddenly, and pasteurization of all milk would safeguard us against one. Even with the herds tested and the almost cleanliness in the barns, some infection may get into the milk from the person milking the cow or later while the product. Pasteurization is a safeguard against this danger."

Pettition for Administration.—Ferry J. McCarthy is petitioner for the administration of the estate of Mrs. Estella McCarthy, who died at Janesville, March 21. The estate is estimated at $7,500.

Defiance of the Law in the Open

In demanding and bulldozing Governor Al Smith of New York into signing the repeal bill of the Mullan-Gage liquor law, the New York World goes further perhaps than any newspaper in support of the liquor ring of the country and especially of New York, heretofore has dared. Explaining that the Republican party of the state passed the law to support and carry out the "terms of the impossible Volstead act," it calls upon the federal government to enforce the law in New York—if it can. "Only cowardice" has kept the Mullan-Gage law on the statute books, says the World. "New York is doing nothing to obstruct, nothing to hinder the federal authority. It is minding its own business and letting the United States attend to its own affairs." And again, "If the federal government cannot enforce the Volstead law, that is the fault of the federal government."

Here is an invitation to anyone to violate the law and a plain declaration that New York does not intend to abide by the prohibition law. The Mullan-Gage law has sharply curtailed the activities of the New York bootleggers and now that it has been repealed, the World invites the government to come on and enforce the law—"if you can."

Open advocacy of law violation by newspapers of the World, invitations to the citizenship to do as it pleases because a law is held to be "impossible," does more to break down respect for law than the preachments of a hundred anarchists and soap box orators. The World places a fire brand in the hand of the citizen, says to him, "There is no one around to stop you, New York state will 'mind its own business' and you will take notice that over there is a building which you might set on fire." Later the World decries the increase in arson.

Governor Smith hesitates about signing the repeal and the World thinks this is strange, and unbelievable. Nevertheless, the governor is going to have a hearing on the bill before he signs it. There is a heavy vote up the state which Gov. Smith may take into cognizance as well as the alien population of New York city.

If the navy goes out after the rum fleet off New York the bootleggers will certainly get the Sandy Hook.

Why the Wets Will Lose

If you want to know why light wines and beers and its natural place of dispensing, the saloon, will not come back in America, you can find an answer in the letter printed herewith. No newspapers are powerful enough whether they are Chicago Tribunes or New York Worlds, to stay prohibition when the mother and wife feels and writes as this woman whose communication appeared in the Milwaukee Journal:

To the Editor of The Journal: We read and hear so much against prohibition. But the other day I met an old friend and after asking her how the folks were getting along she replied:
"Since prohibition we have better clothes, better eats, a happier home and a nice little bank account. I wouldn't for the world want those old drinking days to come back again. I don't see how I ever stood it. It was like living with a maniac when John was drunk, and as long as his money lasted he just could not come home sober. Our home was a living hell."
Now, doesn't that speak for itself? I say: Give prohibition a chance. Rome was not built in a day. May God grant that prohibition has come to stay and will, in time, spread all over the world for the good of all mankind.
A MOTHER.

If those Indians in Dakota win their suit against the government, we may look for some descendant of Black Hawk to begin action to recover Rock county from the whites.

New York refused to pass a bill censoring bad books. The greatest censor is the public and if the people will refuse to read the smut published under the name of literature, there will be little incentive for the author to spread the filth.

Here, wait a minute! Hold on Madison! Elaine, Dahl, all of you! Vermont and Maine have discovered it. Where has Anton Holly been all this time? Both those states are going to tax all circuses, hereafter, when they hit the state boundaries. And to think that no one in our legislature has thought about it at all. The circus will pay from $30 to $150 a day in Vermont depend-

The Widening Application of Radio

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington, May 11.—Radio may soon become as efficient a method of personal communication between moving individuals as the telephone is now for those who are stationary.

This question does not seem extravagant in view of some experiments in the use of short wave lengths and directive apparatus which have been carried out by scientists of the Bureau of Standards.

It should be said, however, that these scientists do not sponsor any far-fung speculations as to what the radio may be, although they are willing to discuss it in a very interesting manner. They confine their statements to the immediate results of their experiments. Francis W. Dunmore and Francis H. Engel, who conducted the experiments in question, have described the results in a scientific paper of the Bureau of Standards "Directive Transmission of a Wave Length of Ten Meters" which is to be published by the government printing office in a few days, and is of wide interest to the growing world of radio amateurs and professionals.

Those who are interested in the technical details of the apparatus used and results obtained should get the paper. For the purpose of this discussion, suffice it to say that the experimenters, following up some work done recently by Marconi and Franklin, constructed apparatus by which they could direct radio communication, using a ten-meter wave length.

To the radio fan, the importance of this method will be immediately apparent. The use of the shorter wave lengths is an obvious necessity in widening the applications of radio to the purpose of every day life.

Traffic in the ether is rapidly becoming congested. One thing necessary to relieve the congestion, of course, is the passage by congress of laws which will permit of the use of a greater variety of wave lengths and so cut down the confusion of interferences which the vast recent development of broadcasting has brought about.

The necessary legislation will undoubtedly be passed in due course. The development of radio then will be largely a development in the use of the shorter wave lengths, and it is this fact which suggests the possibility that radio will become increasingly a thing of personal use.

Radio experts know that with the shorter wave lengths, the range of communication is reduced, but at the same time the number of different wave lengths which may be used is vastly increased. In other words, with the use of short wave lengths, it is not hard to imagine a radio system in a given vicinity not unlike a telephone system, in which each party has his own wave length and his own call. Thus the individual traveling about by car, boat or airplane might be in constant communication with his wife or his office. Furthermore, in the case of boat or airplane, with the use of the directive apparatus, he could be led safely home through the darkest night. The directive parabola would merely be rotated, while at the same time the message would always indicate the direction in which the beam was pointing.

The value of such a personal radio communication for districts where water, mountains and other natural barriers make impossible the use of the telephone, is obvious.

The practicability of the idea is increased by the fact that with the directive apparatus and the short wave length, much less power is necessary, so that such a set would be inexpensive to operate.

The use of a directive radio beam for guiding ships at sea has already been the subject of some experiments by Marconi and Franklin, and it probably has an important future in that line as well. In this work, of course, a much greater range would be necessary.

The method is also believed to have great possibilities in military communication. "By means of it, moving bodies of troops could be kept in constant communication without so much risk that their exchange of messages would reach the enemy as is the case when the communications are broadcasted. Inasmuch as secret communication between moving forces is one of the most difficult problems of war, it may be that the military use is one of the most important future applications of the short wave length and the directive apparatus."

Another department of the government which may well make use of this method is the Forest Service. In its struggle to control the forest fires which eat up millions of dollars worth of timber every year, its greatest problem is to communicate the location of the fire to headquarters on short notice, so that men and tools may be rushed to the spot. It has already used radio to some extent in this work, but for the most part it has had to rely on the telephone, and it has strung its lines across thousands of miles of wilderness to the mountain tops where its fire guards keep vigil throughout the fire season.

These fragile webs of communication are constantly menaced by storms and by falling trees, and the number of look-out posts that can be used in the circumstances is necessarily limited. With a directive system of radio communication, using the short wave length so that the possibilities of interference could be eliminated, quick and certain communication would be obtained with any point in a forest to which an apparatus could be conveyed.

Other possibilities of this method will readily suggest themselves to the imagination. In fact, the future of radio seems to be a subject in which the imagination can work as freely as it could in the realm of aeronautics a generation ago. No man would have dared a few years ago to predict the enormous development of broadcasting which has surprised and delighted the world.

Evidently what is coming next is an intensive development of the use of radio communication. The ether has been conquered, the oceans spanned, the whole world linked together in the impalpable bonds of vibration. The immediate result has been a confusion which will probably get worse before it gets any better. The best thought of law-makers as well as scientists is necessary to a solution of the problem.

And the line of scientific development, the experts seem agreed, is in the direction of short wave lengths use. As everyone knows who follows the radio, practically all communication within this country uses the 300 and 400 meter wave lengths. Yet Mr. Dunmore and Mr. Engel have experimented with wave lengths as short as five meters, and have been highly successful in their work with the ten-meter length. Between these very short wave lengths and those now in use is a vast unexplored range of vibration, in which the future of radio communication can expand.

JUST FOLKS

WORDS
Words are like people, passing every day, Strong, scantful, cheerful, brave and good and bad;
Some clean and fresh as youth and just as glad, And others old and worn and pale and gray. Some words there are which trip along the way, Some dwell with sorrow and are always sad, Others are idlers, soiled and poorly clad, And thus our choice is told in all we say. Since from the passing throng I would not call Base men and vile to walk life's path with me,
But want the brave and wise, and first of all, The clean and true to share my company, Scorning the good to choose the commonplace? Shall I make friends with ugly words and base,

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

When assemblymen and commissioners get to calling one another liars—what difference does it make?
"Literature is a tough life," says one author. We wonder how long it took him to find that out.

Michigan authorities will hunt Benjamin, the pious old prophet of the ridiculous House of David, with airplanes. It now appears that after twenty years they are going to wipe this blot off the map of the State. If the doctor keeps hunting a Flying Roller is with a flying machine, but the old boy can sit down almost anywhere, nestle among his whiskers, and from the air he would be completely disguised as a hayrick.

The Chaplin-Negri engagement is equipped with too many fadeouts to be convincing.

His fiftieth proposal spurned, a western man committed suicide. Some men have very little patience in affairs of the heart.

Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, in speaking at St. Louis on preventive medical science, says we will soon be paying doctors as we pay lawyers—a retainer fee by the year. In other words, we will be paying doctors to keep us out of physical trouble. Dr. Vincent does not claim that he discovered this idea, for, indeed, it is not new. It has been in force in China for centuries only in a slightly different form. In China, if the doctor keeps you well, you pay him. When you are sick you pay him nothing. If a person in the family dies, while under his care, he owes the family a certain sum of money. In other words, it is a tough job in any Chinese family when every body has been well for then the doctor bill is great. If they ever adopt the full Chinese custom in this country, we may see a lot of full-grown loafers suffering colic and septuagenarians coming down with the whooping cough.

The alien who landed in New York speaking a language nobody could understand probably has a job as a floor walker by this time.

Protection Stimulates Exports.
It always happens that a protective tariff tends to increase our export trade. The Democratic party has held the opposite theory, which cannot be sustained by the facts.

In the first year after the passage of the McKinley bill our exports of merchandise increased from $884,000,000 to $1,030,000,000. In the first year after the enactment of the Dingley bill our exports increased from $1,030,000,000 to $1,231,000,000. In the first year after enactment of the Payne-Aldrich bill our exports increased from $1,231,000,000 to $2,400,000,000. Our present increased exports under the Republican tariff law are what might reasonably be expected by a study of our economic history. They utterly confute the predictions made by the Democrats in the campaign of 1922 when they misled hundreds of thousands of citizens into voting against Republican candidates for Congress.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

RAW, PASTEURIZED OR STERILIZED

Certified milk is the purest, safest, cleanest and by all odds the best milk for infant feeding when it is available and the family can afford its higher cost. Certified milk is raw milk produced and handled under the most strict conditions and rigid precautions to insure not only that the cows are healthy and free from disease, but also that milkers and handlers are free from disease. Certified milk is the only grade of raw milk which may be considered safe for infants in large cities. In smaller cities where the milk is delivered to the home within an hour after milking, the raw milk may be safe for infant feeding if the cow or cows have been tuberculin tested. I am unable to assign any specific reasons, but I have a strong conviction that raw milk is always preferable for infants and children when their diet consists chiefly of milk.

Pasteurization means warming or heating the milk up to 145 degrees F., holding at that temperature 20 minutes, and immediately cooling again. This, if properly carried out, destroys the lower grade disease germ in the milk. But it also impairs the vitamin content, renders the milk less valuable for the prevention of scurvy, destroys most of the natural lactic bacilli and thus prevents natural souring of the milk. Because the milk does not sour a mother is apt to imagine it has undergone no decomposition and thus make milk more difficult from putrefaction or decomposition even greater when the lactic bacilli are destroyed. Yet pasteurization does the lesser of evils when it is necessary to choose between a raw and probably unsafe milk and a half cooked but safer product.

Pasteurization is a compromise. It is a clever and cleverly devised method to keep the milk out of the milk by such methods as are used in producing and marketing certified milk. However, pasteurization will not make dirty milk entirely safe for a baby.

Milk may be sterilized, practically, by boiling for five minutes. Many doctors who are not milk specialists in milk without giving any evidence of their presence. Boiling destroys the germs, but not necessarily their poisonous products. Boiling does not make milk more digestible for a baby to digest; in fact it seems to make the milk easier to digest, for it makes the casein precipitate in finer globules in the stomach. It is well to boil the milk, even though it be certified or pasteurized milk, whenever the baby has diarrhea in the summer months. If the milk is boiled as a regular practice over many weeks or

A single pair of rats, breeding uninterruptedly and without disaster, would at the end of three years, be increased to 359,709,482 individual rats.

This is a startling statement, but it is made on authority of the census of the United States Biological Survey.

The common mouse increases almost as fast as the rat.

These facts show why it is necessary to trap and kill rats and mice to keep them from over-running the house.

If left to themselves, they multiply rapidly and cause great damage to property, and spread disease.

Girlof Ghost Mountain

By J. ALLAN DUNN

Author of "A Man to His Mate," "Rimrock Trail," "The Man Trap."

Copyright by Small, Maynard and Company, and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

SYNOPSIS. Peter Sheridan, young New York lawyer, ranches in Arizona because of threatened tuberculosis. Chico, his ranch, is near Ghost Mountain on which he and his foreman, Red Jackson, discover a woman, though, however, to be a ghost. At Metzal, the nearest town, Sheridan is rescued by a Chinaman who is aware that Ghost Mountain is inhabited by a young woman and a giant snake. Hearing that the Hollister and his gang are going to raid the place, Peter and Red plan to rescue the woman. They make their way to the cabin on the mountain and are entertained. The raiders arrive and are for a while, but the women, returning from a visit to the girl, find the place deserted. It is apparent that the Chinaman has some secret which Hollister and his gang of rustlers wish to obtain.

Three-two, "Three-two—'ain't she?" "Yes," Sheridan's brow was furrowed. The letters seemed only nonsense. Perhaps one of the women was really a ghost. "It's O.K.," Jackson kept calling and the sequence was the same. "All right, Red, I've got it. There's trouble in it."

"It's Thora sending. We started in the middle of a word. Her spelling isn't exactly American. O.K.—M—E—C—K. Come over and over again. Get your second gun, Red, and mine. It's on the shelf over my bed. Fill up your cartridge belt and yours. I'll tell you what to do."

His shoving mirror was circular, swinging in a frame of heavy nickel that also made up the handle. One glass magnified, the other side gave ordinary reflection. Sheridan used the first, tilting the glass to catch the image of the sun, shooting up a flash and then losing it as he shifted angles.

Two-three, Three-two (O. K.) he signaled, time after time, not certain whether Thora would understand the abbreviation. Then she flashed it back to him. O. K. Jackson came hurrying with the extra guns, with the cartridge belts and a box of cartridges to fill any vacancies in the webs. "We can show 'em in as we go," he said briefly and jumped for his saddle. The mare was fresh. Sheridan set foot in stirrup, one hand in mane, the other on his horn. As he left ground the mare swayed in a sudden volte of a quarter-circle calculated to upset the careless rider. It was spirit more than temper. Sheridan stood with his weight in stirrup, his body close to her withers. At the end of her jump he swung his right leg swiftly over saddle and settled as she jumped into her stride, tearing at the man, always twenty yards, for a white Sheridan galloped. The mare and the two riders were in the air, the mare's hoofs striking the ground with an even rattling sound. Once he got a hand on the reins, Sheridan pulled a hard pull on the reins from Jackson and his belt.

Neither spoke a word, their minds filled with speculation. Sheridan decided that there must have been an accident and then forsook his decision. In that case Thora would have called for a doctor. Something had happened to Mary. And he could not dissociate that possibility from Hollister. He had felt foolishly secure since they had built the gate. Even now he could not believe that Hollister had discovered the secret of the bar. He shook it all doggedly from him and bent all his energies on riding the mare to the best advantage. Both she and the roan had been resting up for a day or two and they were in rare fettle. The fresh air of morning left them cool and unsweated as

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl and am in love with a young man two years my senior. I have been out with him several times and find him to be a very respectable fellow, but I am not sure of his love for me. He comes to the house quite often but I am not sure whether he comes to see me as I live with a young couple who are also good friends of his. I would like to find out whether he comes to see me and how I could win his affection.

Can you give me some idea on what subject to talk about? I do not know what to talk about when he comes? He invited me to his home to meet his parents. Would it be proper for me to accept the invitation to his home if you are invited by his mother?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Not speaking of engaged couples, how long should a girl go with a boy before it is proper for her to allow him to kiss her? I am almost 19 and am going with two fellows. One stole a kiss the first night I went out with him, and the other has never kissed me, although I have been going with him six months. I did not like it when the first one kissed me right away, but the second one knows nothing about this.

Which do you think cares for me more?

BABY BLUE EYES.
It is not considered proper for a girl to kiss a young man unless she is engaged to him.

Probably the young man who kissed you the first night kisses every girl he can in the same way. He may love you, and he may not; of course I am not in a position to know. You have every reason to believe that the other young man is not promiscuous in his love making and if the time comes that he asks you to kiss him, he will do so because he loves you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl corresponding with a young man of old acquaintance. His home is very far from me at the present time. I know he loves me and I loved him at one time also.

Presently I am keeping company with a young man from my home town. He also says that he loves me and has proposed time and time again. A young man of old acquaintance is coming to this town to live. It is a very great distance from which he must come and I do not wish to turn him back. Another thing I have not seen him for a few years and I do not know whether I could care enough for him to marry him. I care a little for the young man I am going with at present.

UNDECEINED BLACK EYES.
Write your old acquaintance a letter and tell him that because of your long separation you are no longer sure that you love him. If he cares so much for you that he wants to test your love for him, let him come. Also tell him that you have been going with another young man during his absence so that he will not expect to have you all to himself when he comes.

BLUE-EYED BOBBIE.
Time will show you whether the young man goes to see you or the people with whom you live. Since he has invited you to his home I should imagine that he likes you and goes to see you as well as his friends with whom you live. It would be all right to accept the invitation to his home if you are invited by his mother.

much goes off daily through the pores—a surprising amount, anyway. One can perspire off pounds in a few hours, as any fat lady in a Turkish bath, or overweight horse jockey can tell you.

This waste, then, dries on the skin, some of it evaporates, much is absorbed by the clothing. Naturally, if there is too much, it will clog up the minute pores and prevent them from throwing off more. Millions of stopped-up, or partially stopped-up, pipes in the body mean that this waste must find its way out some other way. Usually it goes out certain facial pores which enlarge under the pressure and which turn black at the exposed end.

A hot bath, with soap and a fairly stiff scrubbing brush, means that all this matter is cleared off in the normal way, because all the pores will be open, and unusually active, owing to the stimulation of the stiff brush. They will drain off, to use an un-technical term, the matter clogging the facial pores, and so make the

Put some cream color into the woodwork and furniture, put dark shades at the windows, keep the covers in pinks and blues and tans and above all have a dark green lining for the hood of the baby's carriage.

It is all very well to put him outdoors for his daily nap, but don't ruin his eyesight by even the tiniest glaze of sun on his closed eyes. The carriage should be darkened and kept so by a careful readjustment of the hood cover. We can make the baby actually ill by disregard of such precautions.

We do the baby's eyes much injury through carelessness. As the eyes are the most delicate of organs, and most infantile of colors. Your FREE Package of LINN - have you tried it?

LAST week we instructed one of our representatives to call at your home with a free, full size 10c package of Linn. Did you receive this package, and if so, have you had an opportunity to try it?

Linn, as thousands of women will testify, is the ideal soap. There is nothing quite like it for washing clothes, dishes, woodwork and for keeping everything about the home spick and span, clean, bright and spotless.

Judge for Yourself

We are so sure that you, too, will be unwilling to go back to old fashioned soaps and cleaners after you have once tried Linn, that we want to place the first package in your hands, entirely free.

So if for any reason you failed to receive your gift package last week, write to us and we will send you one free and postage paid. There are a limited number of free packages to be distributed in your locality, so we must urge you to act quickly. This offer is open only to those whom our representative failed to reach. If you are one of these, write today.

LINN—Pure Soap Plus

Linn soap is pure—plus. It contains natural water softeners and is pulverized for your convenience. Don't put it in a class with even the best washing powders for it contains no filler and no caustic soda. Expect more of it than you do of the best soap chips and bar soaps, for it dissolves readily even in cold water making it soft as rain. The use of coconut oil and neutral sodas in Linn explains why it doesn't red-dens the hands. It's economical because it's 100% efficient. It's as perfect as a soap can be made. You be the judge.

Quimet, America's Last Hope, Loses Semi-Final at Deal

Copyright 1920, by Geo. McManus

OXFORD STAR PUTS FORMER CHAMPION ON OUTSIDE, 2-1

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Deal, Eng.—Francis Quimet, last survivor of the American golfers, was defeated in the semi-final round of the British amateur golf championship today here. Friday's match, by Roger Wethered, the Oxford star, 2 and 1. Quimet won his way into the semi-finals by defeating Britain's favorite, Cyril Tolley, 4 and 3 in the first round this morning. The American, displaying that superb game for which he is renowned, took the lead at the fourth hole and never let Quimet make a gallant uphill struggle.

Douglas Grant, American resident of England, was put out by Robert Harris, Royal and Ancient in the semi-finals, five and four. The last trace of American color in the championship affair was lost through the result of the other semi-final match in which Robert Harris of the Royal and Ancient defeated Douglas Grant, American resident of England, five and four.

Simmons Opens Fairy Season

The Simmons teams of Kenosha plays the Fairbanks-Norse in the first midwest league game on Sunday at Beloit Saturday and Sunday. It will be the second week for both teams.

Open Rifle Range at Park Sunday

Janesville's rifle club will baptize its new outdoor range at Riverside park Sunday morning with a National Rifle association championship shoot. This is the first championship activity to make use of the new city park.

The new range was completed Thursday by Albert Nott and Andrew Kull. The match will be at 50 and 100 yards, 20 shots to a man with five men on the team.

On May 19, the Case Eagle team of Racine will come here to engage the local team in a match at 50 foot prone. Last year Racine defeated Janesville in a mail-match by one point, so that interest this season is unusually high.

On May 26, the Case team will have 10 men, eight high to count, shooting 20 shots per man.

Gold Tracksters Run Against Coe

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Beloit—Hampered by cold and changeable weather which forced indoor workouts this week, the Beloit track team meets Coe college Saturday at Cedar Rapids, Ia., in one of the hardest duels in the Beloit schedule. Coach Osgood will take over 20 men on the trip, with the hope of picking up every available point.

Captain Addie and Rietz, Beloit sprinters, will find stiff competition in Rook and Powell, Coe runners, and will be pressed to the limit to place in the hurdle race, in which Rietz and the Beloit school will have the edge, but in the longer runs the lowans are exceedingly strong. Either Rietz or Warner is expected to capture the quarter mile for Beloit, while Moore, Wilhoit and Brandup will find it hard to place in the distance events.

Although Beloit defeated Cornell last year by a comfortable score, a hard week of practice has been the program for Osgood's cinder men. The weather and indoor workouts may prove fatal for the Gold in Saturday's meet.

Beloit was defeated by the Coe half mile relay team at the Drake meet, but should be able to give them a stiff run when fighting for the pole. At Drake each team was forced to run in its own lane so that no advantage could be gained by a fast getaway.

Beloit team ran the distance in 1:32, while Coe was timed at 1:32-2-5. Knox defeated Coe last week by 10 points, and with the results of the Coe-Beloit, Cornell is available on a midwest championship.

Central Picked to Capture Meet

Athletes of six schools of southern Wisconsin are meeting at Camp Randall, Madison, Friday afternoon in the second annual southern Wisconsin track and field meet. They are the three Madison schools—Central, East and University—Edgerton, Stoughton and Milton Union.

Central is given every chance to repeat its work of last week when it took the Whitewater meet with little trouble. Union is expected to show better in the 100-yard dash and DeLoon in the shot put. Lewis of Stoughton is a good bet for the mile run. Edgerton Central is down to take the hurdles and the high jump. Fights are due to develop in the other events.

More than 100 lads will take part. They will be guests of University of Wisconsin fraternities over night and of the university at the Minnesota baseball game and dual track meet Saturday.

Gibson Captains Badger Cage Team

Madison—Douglas Gibson, star center on the champion University of Wisconsin basketball team was elected captain for the 1922-23 season. Gibson, whose home is in Cumberland, Wis., is a junior in the medical college, and was picked by many sporting editors as center on the all-conference team for 1923-24.

WHAT about this Willard-Johnson fight at New York Saturday? Willard is not the fast man he once was, and while he has taken off some weight, according to press reports, he still is heavy. Johnson will be some 40 pounds lighter, and if this has any effect it may give him a chance to show greater speed than Jones. He is naturally more easy on his feet than the former champion. It looks very much as if what chance Willard may have will depend upon his doing his best slugging in the early rounds, positively before the fourth is over. For it would seem that Johnson has all the edge after the fourth, depending to a great extent on his footwork rather than on his punch.

BASEBALL clubs are funny propositions sometimes. The pitcher who uses his bean out of the box as well as in it, and appeals a bit of psychology, has the world by the tail—providing, of course, he can deliver the twirling goods. Take, for instance, the bawling hurler with a reputation, and by wandering is meant the chap who like to pitch week-ends at various places. He doesn't have to sign up with a club, and he can't get paid. Let him name a price and if they don't take him up, just wait patiently. As sure as little apples come off the tree, he'll receive a telegram when one of the clubs he is dickering with loses a contest. The writer knows of several men who have done this occasionally and paid down a couple of thousand each summer.

WHILE the fuss is going on about Paddock running at Paris with Charlie to say for himself? Here it should have been the duty of the International Students' association, of which the American college is a member and to which my university belongs. In good faith I was invited, and in good faith I have competed. My eligibility question for the collegiate American union to settle. Whatever that decision may be, I desire that it may bring about definite co-operation among all the athletic bodies of my country so that America may have a glorious success in the Paris Olympic games.

Diamond Sparkles (By A. P.)—Philadelphia Athletics continue as sensation of majors for having made good showing against eastern teams, they have caught good stride in first western invasion after losing first contest, winning Thursday at St. Louis. The Athletics pitched a perfect game, with aid of snow in Detroit, which kept Tyers and Washington idle. Philadelphia went into third place, topping Indians who lost to Yankees 10-4. Everybody in Yankee lineup hit at least once for total of 19 safeties and 25 bases and New York drew further away from pack.

Three Indian pitchers had a hit or box.—Raichle crashed four hits including double and triple for Boston Americans, who lost to White Sox at Chicago 9-0-7. Cincinnati treated Boston to another loss on home lot, winning 4-3. Weather caused postponement of other games.

Camp Skinner, outfielder of Red Sox released under option to Atlanta. Southern Association.—Ira Flaggstead, traded to Red Sox by Tyers for outfielder Gossel, reported to Manager Chance and smashed run with runner on.—Dave Black, Chicago boy, on Red Sox pitching staff presented with ring and six days old pig by Chicago manager. He pitched one ball, which Sheely drove to left for single when he opened eighth inning and was replaced by Murray.—Tris Speaker, Manager of Indians, returned to Chicago following five day suspension but was unable to stop slugging of Yankees.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Stand Section Is Stolen from Local Club's Park

One of those thieves who is always classed as the "meanest sort" and who would better keep out of reach of members of the Janesville Booster baseball club, got in his hands right off the bat, (or their) dirty work Thursday night. One complete section of the stands being erected for Sunday's game with Port Atkinson, opening the southern Wisconsin league season here, was stolen and carted away. In addition, some of the lumber was spirited off. This will not hinder the club's seating plans, however. The stands will be finished by Friday night. On Saturday, the screening to protect fans from balls will be put in place.

Fort Looking Strong

The diamond at "The Pines," North Washington street, will be laid out Saturday. It will then be floated, unless it should rain Friday night.

Thursday, Irving Roberts, manager of the Fort Atkinson team, dropped in at headquarters here, accompanied by Outfielder Kramer. He left a bit of hope on his team. Port will have four new men in its midst this season. Owen, who played professional ball in Iowa, will carry around the shortstop. Horie, former St. Paul Traction player, and with the Stoughton club last year, will be behind the bat. Goss, league team last year and who won the only game against Whitewater, league champs a year ago, will hold down second. He will also fill in as a reserve twirler. Nichols and Kramer will be in the outfield, strengthening the club. Kramer is showing good work with the Hickory last Sunday getting a perfect day after a four day layoff.

Have Snappy infield

The Port infield will be snappy. There is only one slight weak spot in the Port legion outfit and that will be plugged. Klement will be on third, Stutz at first and Goss at second. Frankie will be the probable choice for hurling the curtain raiser.

The Port grounds are in nice shape and will be in perfect condition for the opener in that city, next week. The city fathers of Port Atkinson have fixed up the stands, thus displaying the vast interest in the league in that neck of the woods. The seats will hold about 300.

On the game of Sunday will see Edgerton at Stoughton and Deerfield at Cambridge.

COUNTY STARTS UP PAVING AT LEYDEN

Finish Three-Quarter Mile
Stretch Near Gravel Pit
on Route 10.

Having in a week's time completed the three-quarter mile stretch of concrete paving on Highway 10 from near the gravel pit, pouring of concrete at the end of the eight miles built last year has been started by the county highway crew. It probably will take two weeks to complete the stretch from Leyden towards Evansville. Then work will start on the final stretch into Evansville, from near the gravel pit.

Five miles of pipe has been laid for the water supply. Three gravel jobs let several weeks ago are in the process of completion. The Lathers crew is working on the Jamesville-Shopiere road; the Gorry crew on the Johnstown-Center road and Kennedy and Bush on the White-water-Edgerton highway. Work on the Clinton road is held up because of inability to get trucks.

Letting of the contract for the federal job from Clinton to the Walworth county line is held up. It is understood, because of the grade crossing east of Clinton. The federal government plans to have the road relocated and erect a viaduct. The Walworth county piece, which connects, will be built at once, the contract having been let this week.

To allow work to start soon, County Commissioner Charles E. Moore said the government may allow a contract to be let with work being done on both sides of the railroad track.

BELIEVE SUPREME COURT WILL BLANK LIQUOR DECISION

law enforcement and wreck the effort to stop the drug traffic as well. More than 20 states of the Union have laws on their statute books forbidding physicians to prescribe intoxicants at all and if Judge Knox's decision were affirmed by the supreme court, it might impair the validity of all the state laws on the subject. The Volstead law doesn't go as far as do these state laws—it does permit the prescription of a certain quantity of alcohol and merely attempts to regulate the issuance of prescriptions.

Would Clinicians Powers. The 20 or more state laws forbidding physicians permits altogether naturally supersede the Volstead act and it would appear that a decision by the supreme court of the United States would go far toward clarifying the powers not only of the federal government and congress particularly to regulate the use of intoxicants by physicians for medicinal purposes but the constitutionality of state laws on the subject for no state can make a law in contravention of the federal constitution.

Reversal Expected. The expectation, however, in prohibition circles here is that Judge Knox's opinion will not be sustained. This view is based upon the exhaustive treatment given the subject when congressional committees held hearings on the question before the Volstead act was passed. A large number of medical institutions and associations gave their opinions that the use of alcoholic stimulants for medicinal purposes was unnecessary. The organization of physicians which is conducting the fight against Volstead law provisions and existing regulations is an outgrowth of that smaller body of medical men which passed and warned the legislators they would not tolerate interference with the practice of medicine as they had been taught.

States Offer Evidence. The advocates of regulation, however, offered in evidence the practice and experience of the scores of states where physicians cannot prescribe liquor and where the health of the communities affected has not been impaired. The department of justice will appeal to the supreme court of the United States for a reversal of Judge Knox's opinion. What the highest court of the land decides will perhaps settle suddenly another point which for years has been a subject of controversy, namely the right of congress to pass laws interfering in any way with the practice of medicine. The movement for a department of public health which has been agitated for a generation, has been bitterly fought by one school of medicine which fears the domination of the government machinery by another school of medicine.

Religion Enters In. The controversy has also been linked up with those religious sects which are opposed to the use of medicine. Should the supreme court render a decision which gives congress the right to pass laws regulating the exact method by which physicians may treat their patients or rather forbidding them to use certain medicines, the decision would be regarded as a victory by the people who have long been striving for the elimination because of its effect in directions other than prohibition of intoxicants or drugs.

Will Expedite Case. Every effort will be made to have the case expedited because the enforcement not only of the Volstead law provided respecting medical permits but the unlimited use of drugs in prescriptions are vitally related to the lives of thousands of people in the interim, and as a rule, cases of this kind get precedence on the calendar of the judiciary.

SWINE SANITATION URGED BY PURCELL

McLean County System of Protecting Pigs from Worms Explained.

Adoption of the McLean county system of hog sanitation was advocated for Rock county by Dr. J. T. Purcell, Madison, federal animal husbandry agent, during the Farm Bureau meetings held Thursday afternoon in the Evansville city hall. The McLean county system put in by the government and a former county agent has enabled farmers to produce 5,000 thrifty pigs with an average of 10 to a litter with practically no losses from ordinary swine diseases.

The sanitation system is mainly aimed to protect the farrowing pigs from the disastrous round-worm. It requires no technical knowledge, rather the application of some sanitary principles, and will be tried out in Rock county the coming fall. This has been a severe farrowing season and there is no remedy except that farmers either must have hog houses that are fully adequate to meet the needs of such weather conditions as we have had, or have their brood sows farrow later," stated Dr. Purcell. "The hog is still a mortgage. If you give your herd a chance, McLean county farmers raise 10 to a litter without running and do it by a system that every good farmer in Rock county could and should follow." For treating worms, Dr. Purcell recommended the following treatment: 15 oz. castor oil. 1 oz. oil of chenopodium. This mixture to be injected with a syringe on the following schedule: 48 to 60 pound pigs....1 oz.

100 pound pigs2 oz.
Farmers using this treatment were warned to fast the pigs for 24 or 36 hours before treatment and from three to four hours or longer after treatment. "In the case cholera breaks out near our farm, vaccinate quickly," farmers were warned.

"Watch for the first call and get busy and above all things, protect your herd from strange pigs." Just received a shipment of the same old reliable Egg Preservers that we have sold for years. McCUBB & BUSS DRUG CO. Advertisement.

SCHOOL FOR BLIND GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

Legislature Visiting Committee Also Lauds State School at Delavan.

High praise for the state school for the blind, recognized by officials as the finest of all state institutions in Wisconsin, is given by the visiting committee of the legislature in its report filed by Senator C. D. Casperson, made public Friday.

"The school is exceptionally clean and well kept," says the report. "The place is well arranged and provides ideal environment for people who are afflicted as these are. As one goes through the various parts of the school, he cannot help but realize that it is more like a home than anything else. The air of cheerfulness is very gratifying."

Delavan School Praised
The management of the school for the deaf at Delavan is praised by the committee, which recommends that the school printing establishment "can and should be enlarged so as to provide for the handling of as much of the state printing as practical. Need for employing a practical farmer at each state institution to run the farms now being operated at a loss, is recommended by the committee."

Other Recommendations
Referring to other state institutions, the committee states that the buildings at Wailes sanatorium are but a few years old and in poor condition, and 63 patients are crowded into the care of 155 patients which should be investigated. Better salaries for the employees at Sparta are needed and working conditions at the home for feeble minded at Chippewa Falls should be improved, the committee states.

A new building is recommended for the northern hospital for the insane at Winnebago to care for acute cases of insanity. Praise is given the Wisconsin Veterans' Home at Waunakee. Increasing the academic and vocational training at the Green Bay reformatory is recommended.

Union Grave Home Criticized
The condition of the farm at the home for feeble minded at the state of Wisconsin is severely criticized. A large portion of the tillable land looks like a weed plantation and the fact that seven or eight hogs died last winter from exposure shows gross mismanagement, in the opinion of the committee.

Recommendation is made that a new hospital be built at the state prison and several other buildings be remodeled. Additional buildings are needed at the Wisconsin Memorial hospital at Mendota where the cottages are filled to capacity.

BILLS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR.
By Ridgway, extending number of persons admitted to tuberculosis sanatoriums.

By Killian, bringing hotels within women's hours of work law.

By Nelson, relating to improvement of water supply in counties containing cities of third class.

By Hutchinson, relating to funds for care of cemeteries.

By Allen, relating to grain and warehouse commission.

By public welfare committee, prohibiting persons who contract diseases from working in restaurants.

SNOWSTORM FAILS TO INJURE ROADS

Many Detours on State Highways as Building and Repairs Start.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee—The storm of the early part of the week, although severe for this time of the year, did not affect road conditions in Wisconsin, according to The Milwaukee Journal's tour department.

Highway 17 to Manitowish has two detours, both being marked and will cause no trouble.

Highway 23 out of Fond du Lac has a detour at Rosendale.

Highway 29 from the Dodge county line west is closed and the detour provided is poor.

Highway 19 is still open to Madison, although it is expected to be closed in three places almost any day, after which it will be necessary to detour on to county trunk 12, 26-11-12 to Madison.

The roads in the southeastern section are in fairly good condition with construction work started in places. In these cases detours are provided.

"SAFETY LAST" TO BE HERE FIVE DAYS

A great amount of exploitation for "Safety Last," Harold Lloyd's newest production to be seen at the Apollo theater five days starting next Monday, is making the Janesville theater-going public and those others not ordinarily "addicted" to the movies, eager to see this picture, promised to be a great laugh provoker. In the last few months Lloyd has increased greatly in popularity until he might now safely be called America's greatest comedian, and in "Safety Last" he has produced his first seven reel production.

Bookkeeper Falls Heir to Fortune

"Upon the death of an uncle I inherited $50,000. I gave up my position and intended enjoying myself when I was stricken with a severe case of stomach trouble and colic attacks. Two of these attacks made me lose consciousness. After treating with our best doctors with little benefit, I decided to try May's Wonderful Remedy, and it helped me at once. I have been entirely well for past year." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. This is Home Garage Week

This week ESCAPE

—from the dangerous "Give me a quart of oil"

Why do so many veteran motorists and experienced operators of taxi-cabs and motor trucks buy their Gargoyle Mobiloil in large sealed containers. These are the reasons:

1. Certainty

(1) Certainty. They are sure that the Gargoyle Mobiloil sold in sealed containers is genuine. The purchase of loose "quarts of oil" sometimes tempts an unscrupulous dealer to substitute low-quality oil for genuine Gargoyle Mobiloil.

(2) Convenience. With a 5-gallon can or a 15-, 30-, or 55-gallon steel drum (with faucet) in your home garage, you always have an adequate supply of the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil on hand. You don't have to wait in line in front of the dealer's until he gets through serving gasoline and oil to customers ahead of you.

(3) Better operation. The best operating results are secured by maintaining the oil at the proper level. With Gargoyle Mobiloil in your home garage you can add every day the correct amount of "make-up" oil—a pint, a quart, or whatever amount you may need.

Even more important: The cutting effect of gasoline tends to thin down even the best lubricating oil. The daily addition of fresh oil builds up the body of the entire oil supply, and helps make up for this fuel admixture.

Containers for your Home Garage

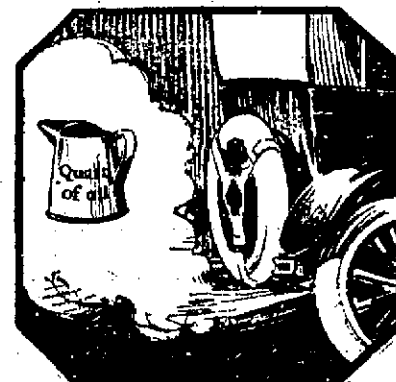

During the week of May 7th to 12th, dealers all over the country are giving the home garage owner special attention. They have put in ample stocks of all grades of Gargoyle Mobiloil in the larger containers.

Gargoyle Mobiloil comes in 1-gallon and 5-gallon cans and in 15-, 30-, and 55-gallon steel drums, equipped with a convenient faucet. The 5-gallon can and 15-gallon drum will undoubtedly be very popular during Home Garage Week. The oil is cheaper than when bought in the 1-gallon can.

See your dealer today. Most leading dealers are displaying the Home Garage Week sign in their windows. They have the Vacuum Oil Company's complete Chart of Recommendations. On it you can quickly find the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil for your car.

VACUUM OIL COMPANY

If I Could Dress Hair—

I NSTEAD of having customers come to me, I would go to them, making the calls by appointment. I would go to a woman's home, shampoo her hair, and put it up for water waves. Or I would arrange it tastefully for her if she were going out in the evening; then she wouldn't have it disarranged, and she would if she had it done downtown and then had to put on her hat and go home.

Perhaps I could arrange to go regularly to rooming houses where there are a number of girls, as one woman I know does, and shampoo their hair or give scalp treatments all in the same evening. Girls who are working or going to school would appreciate this service.

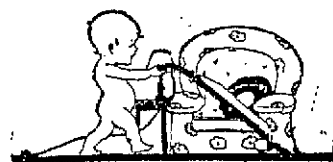

Of course, I would have to get customers, but I've a sound plan for this, too. I would have them call for me. I'd run a Want Ad in the Gazette and I'd find customers soon enough. That's how I'd go out and not tidy sums for my bank account.

If I Had a Vacuum Cleaner—

MANY people, while they would not buy a vacuum cleaner, wish to use one at times. I'd rent my cleaner out to them, offering it through Gazette Want Ads. Thus my cleaner would pay for itself and more.

I know one enterprising boy who did more than that. He took his mother's vacuum cleaner around on Saturdays and made a neat sum cleaning rugs for housewives.

If I Were an Artist—

I WOULD paint place cards, favors, invitations, programs, etc. There is a big demand for this kind of work. I would take advantage of this condition.

I would fix it so that when any person wanted place cards and the like, I would be the person called on. It would simply be a matter of telling the people of Jamesville what I could do.

I would tell them with Gazette Want Ads.

If I Lost Valuables—

I FOUND a gold pencil the other day. I looked through the Gazette "Lost and Found" Want Ads and there, sure enough, was an advertisement for the very pencil I had found.

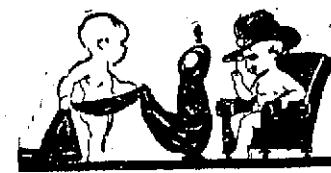

Now I know what to do if I ever lose anything—advertise for it in the Gazette. Maybe you think this isn't a way to make money, but it is. Finding lost articles saves the price of replacing them with new. Money saved is money made, you know.

If I Could Design—

I T would not take me long to tell people about my ability. Maybe I could design women's clothes, costumes, hats, etc. Maybe it would be furniture or wall paper or the like.

But I'd let people know—what ever it happened to be—so that they could come to me for designs. I'd let Gazette Want Ads tell people that I had attractive designs for sale at attractive prices.

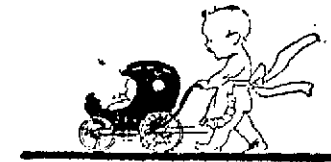

If I Were a Woman—

I WOULD start a business of my own—a new kind of business. I would employ refined young ladies whom I could trust with children. For a certain fixed charge I would have these capable young women take care of children in homes where Mother and Dad had to be absent. There are any number of such homes where the problem of getting some one to stay with the children is never satisfactorily solved.

I would tell these homes about my service through Gazette Want Ads. I would open up a new field of profit.

I would find my assistants through the Gazette Want Ads, too. It wouldn't be long before I had a going business that would pay me well. The demand now exists. I would take immediate advantage of it, and cash in with Gazette Want Ads.

If I Were a Teacher—

I WOULD find some person who wanted to "brush up" on the subjects I could teach. Maybe he would need tutoring to pass an examination, or perhaps he would want to make up for a neglected education. At any rate, I could tutor this person either in the afternoon or evening.

Through Gazette Want Ads I would get my first pupil. Then maybe I'd decide I could handle some more, and soon I'd be busy one or two extra hours every day. Other teachers have done this, so I know my plan would be a success. I would improve my work and make money at the same time.

These Little Suggestions

may help you to find that work which you are best fitted to do, and in turn bring to you or your family a handsome revenue.

The GAZETTE Classified Service Department, under the direction of Mary Brown, has many more suggestions to give you regarding little ways of making money. Just

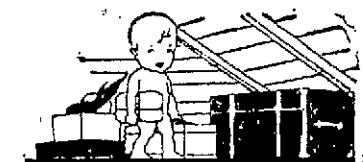

PHONE 2500

Ask for Mary Brown. She will help you word your ad to make it pay.

If I Had Attic Space—

MANY people less fortunate would be glad to store things in my attic—if I told them about it. If they were moving temporarily into a smaller place and didn't want to get rid of some of their effects, they'd be glad to find a safe place to store them for comparatively little expense.

The best way to tell such people that I had the space would be through Gazette Want Ads, the little salesmen that have access to so many of the homes of this city.

If I Could Mend—

I F you're one of the more unfortunate ones who must mend your own clothes, you'd appreciate having some one do it for you. Right here in Jamesville, there are hundreds of people who dislike mending, and there are others, too, who like it and do very neat work. I'd establish a service station and do everything from darning socks for busy bachelors to letting down hems for working women. People would bring their mending jobs to me in the morning and carry them away in the evening—buttons all on, tears all patched, and holes neatly darned. Of course they'd come again.

I know that if I could mend I'd mend every day. I'd advertise in the Classified Columns of the Gazette, telling the large number of readers what I can do.

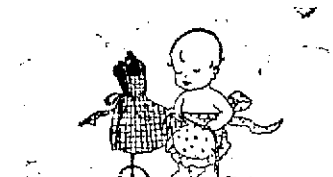

If I Could Make Aprons—

E VER stop to think that practically every woman, regardless of her station in life, will wear an apron some time or other? Think of the demand for good aprons.

Why not make aprons to measure? Aprons from selected material? Aprons of new design? Wouldn't they sell, though?

It simply would be a matter of telling the women of Jamesville that these different aprons were being made at right prices. This could be done best with Gazette Want Ads.

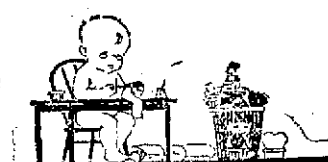

If I Could Make Novelties—

B Y novelties I mean paper favors and the like for children's parties, dances and dinners.

I would see to it that the people of this city knew about my talent in this line. I would tell them where they could get favors made to order that would just suit the occasion. I would do this with the ready help of Gazette Want Ads.

People are always having parties. I would have a steady demand for my novelties. I might have to employ several girls to help me in my work, but that would mean more business and more money made.

If I Could Play Bridge—

T HERE exists a demand nowadays for bridge teachers. If I were good at bridge, I would take advantage of this demand. I would teach others the game.

Through Want Ads I would let Jamesville men and women know that I was in a position to teach them the game of Auction Bridge quickly and at small cost.

I would interest enough persons with my Gazette Want Ads to start the ball rolling, and I'd keep it rolling from then on.

If I Could Dance—

I F I had studied classical dancing or ball-room dancing, I would teach other people the art. I might start a ballet dancing class for children, or teach a group of grown-ups the newest steps.

I could give private lessons in the home, or give dancing demonstrations before clubs. There are countless ways in which I could impart to others "the poetry of motion." Through Gazette Want Ads I would tell thousands about my plan.

If I Could Remodel Dresses—

T HAT well-dressed look tant al-ways dependent on brand new clothes. Several of my friends are considered very good "dressers," and do you know that they spend less for clothes than the average woman? Here's the secret—they remodel their old dresses. Sometimes they combine one or two, or remodel a suit and turn it into a dress.

Every one can't remodel clothes skillfully. There are many women who have dresses in which the material is perfectly good, but which are not adapted to changed styles. They'd be glad to know of a "doctor for dresses" who could make over their wardrobes.

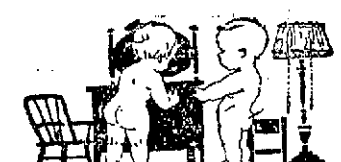

If I could remodel dresses, I'd advertise it in a Gazette Want Ad and start building up a trade right away.

If I Wanted New Furniture—

I F I were sick of my old furniture and the children were getting ashamed of it, and yet I couldn't afford to buy new furniture, I know how I'd get new things anyway. I'd follow the example of many others and sell my old furniture at a good price through a Want Ad in the Gazette.

You could do the same. So can anybody. And why not? Every day the Gazette is read by thousands of people here and throughout the state—people who want to buy just such furniture as you have. How are they going to know about your furniture or how are you going to know about their needs if you don't let Gazette Want Ads bring you together?

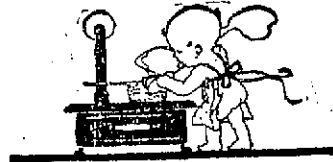

If I Could Cook—

I WOULD make a business of cooking for big family dinners, parties, and luncheons, which the housewife can't manage by herself. I'd bake cakes and special pastries, too, and take orders for them.

If I wanted steady work that wouldn't take my entire time, I'd get dinner regularly for a young married woman in business, or for a group of business women who share an apartment and don't like to come home from work to be confronted with the job of preparing a meal.

I'd offer my services, of course, through Gazette Want Ads, for they'd start me out on the road to making money.

If I Could Embroider—

I WOULD specialize in monogram, embroidery on shirts, napkins, pillow cases, tablecloths, etc.

Lots of people want this work done, but haven't time to do it themselves and don't know where they can have it done satisfactorily. If I could embroider, it wouldn't take me long to tell men and women of the fact. Soon they would be bringing work to me.

The sooner they knew about me, the sooner I could get orders. So I would start telling them at once through the quickest, surest, most economical medium—Gazette Want Ads.

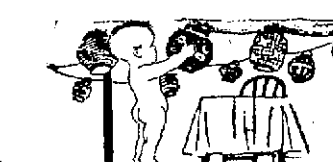

If I Could Plan Parties—

P EOPLE who make a business of planning parties get good incomes as a result. Why couldn't I do the same?

Of course, I would have to know about favors, refreshments, and dance figures, but this wouldn't take long to learn, especially if I were interested.

Then I would set about telling people I could plan and help them with their parties—for children and grown-ups. I would handle dinners, card parties, lawn fetes, dances, house parties, and the like. Telling my story would be easy. I would use Gazette Want Ads. This would be economical, sure and quick.

If I Wanted $10—

I F I wanted a certain sum of money in a hurry, say ten, fifteen, or twenty dollars, I would turn merchant for a while and sell something for that amount.

Every attic holds some article no longer wanted that is worth good money to somebody. Maybe a trunk, an old desk, clothes, or a set of drawing instruments—anything.

I would look around to see what I had that I could sell. Then I would find a buyer with a Gazette Want Ad. It would be easy, quick, and economical, because some one always wants what another has, and is willing to pay for it.

If I Were a Housekeeper—

I WOULD be the best little home manager ever. I would show friend husband a few things about making money, without starting capital, that would surprise him. I would buy new furniture with old. I would, if I employed a maid, always have a competent one.

I would sell a lot of things in my house that we no longer wanted—maybe a chair or a table or a rug or a bed. Possibly an old trunk, a used gown, crockery, old paper, a worn-out stove or even a discarded lawn mower.

I would do these things and many more on the tiniest investment imaginable, probably figured in cents instead of dollars. In other words, I'd invest in Gazette Want Ads.

ASKS COUNTY TO PAY DOCTOR BILL

Industrial Commission to Hold Hearings Here in Lennartz Case.

Whether a policeman, acting as a sheriff's deputy, can recover from the county for injuries suffered while returning from a mission authorized by the sheriff, is a matter to be decided by the state industrial commission in the case of Leo Lennartz, Jamesville, vs. Rock county. Patrolman Lennartz took a prisoner to Green Bay reformatory last fall for Sheriff Fred Beley and was seriously hurt in an automobile accident near Kaukauna on the way home. He was brought to his home here where he was confined in bed for several weeks. He is asking the county to pay only his doctor's bill. County Clerk Howard W. Lee declined to pay it so Lennartz has put it up to the industrial commission to decide. The matter is one of six scheduled to be heard by the commission in a one-day hearing at the city hall here, May 25. It is set for 1:30 p. m.

Another case scheduled for hearing that day is that of C. E. Ward vs. Harry Jones. Ward was injured in unloading steel on the Jones theater site. This is to come up at 9 a. m.

Other actions listed are:

9:30 a. m.—Amos Kent vs. Home Electric company.

10 a. m.—Thomas E. Dooley vs. Sarason tractor company.

11 a. m.—William Banker vs. A. Summers & Son.

2 p. m.—George Alnoworth vs. MacLean Construction company.

COUNTY CLUB WOMEN HAVE SUCCESSFUL ROUND-UP MEETING

carried out by the local women.

Dress Forms Help Women.

During the forenoon, reports were given by representatives of the different groups, showing that the making of dress forms had proved of great benefit to several hundred women, who were thus enabled to do more of their own sewing and save many dollars of expense. The reports also showed members of each of the original groups had assisted many other women of their neighborhood in the making of dress forms.

Those who presented reports were: Mrs. Walter Green, Mrs. H. Daugherty, Mrs. Henry Porter, Mrs. Harry S. Spooner, Evansville; Mrs. Edith Smith, Brooklynn; Mrs. James Caldwell, route 1, Jamesville; Mrs. Marcus Kellough, Jamesville; Mrs. B. P. Olson, Millington; Mrs. Robert Snyder, Clinton.

The service afforded to rural clubs by the Gazette community department was explained by Mrs. Florence Hyde.

Mrs. James Caldwell sang two numbers at the beginning of the afternoon session. Mrs. Harry Spooner, county chairman, presided. Mrs. Spooner was elected as delegate to the women's auxiliary meeting to be called later by the state Farm Bureau.

CANNING SEASON GETS UNDER WAY

Pineapples, Oranges and Grapefruit, Best Now for Preserving.

Housewives, prepare to begin canning! Next week, without any hint of triumph, this busy season will open, when pineapples will be in their prime for preserving, to remain so for two weeks or less. Grocers as far as pineapples go, for they think the season will last several weeks.

There are many "pines" in market now, at prices of 25, 25 and 30 cents each, large size, but the price may go a little lower as mid-season is reached. Sugar of course, will be rather high, but the market is said to be easier this week, and perhaps some drops in prices will have occurred by the end of the next two weeks. Ten and eleven cents is now being asked, grocers saying that the product is still scarce.

Preserve Oranges Now.

The present is the best time for any grapefruit and orange preserving, with prices reasonable and the fruit in excellent condition. Oranges range from 45 to 60, with grapefruit at four for a quarter. Lemons have taken a little drop to 35 cents, while banana and apple prices remain the same—12 cents per pound and three pounds for a quarter, respectively. Cucumbers at 10 cents, new ones, while California cherries remain at 50 and 60 cents, per pound, a comparatively low price.

Beans, Peas in Market.

Only the usual variety is seen in the vegetable market, with the following finding ready sales: (green beans and wax beans, 23 and 25 cents per pound; peas, 25 cents; green onions, 10 cents per bunch; beets, 10 cents per bunch; celery 15 cents; rhubarb, 10 cents per bunch; carrots and radishes, 10 cents per bunch; new cabbage, 9 and 10 cents per pound; head lettuce, 15 cents and leaf, 25 cents per pound; new potatoes, 6 and 8 cents by the pound; cucumbers, 15 cents; asparagus, 15 and 18 cents new Texas onions, 3 pounds for 25 cents.

Butter now brings 43 and 44 cents per pound. Little changed from last week, and eggs at 25 cents are the same as they have been for weeks. There is a great abundance of them. Old potatoes bring 25 cents a peck.

LIVE MODEL CAUSES NEAR TRAFFIC TIUP

A pair of silk stockings held the interest of many passersby at the Golden Eagle, Thursday, and countless pairs of silk hose fashioned into an abbreviated gown and cape of black and white, threatened to the up traffic on the west end of Milwaukee street bridge at noon and after 5 p. m.

Miss Juanita Burns innovated the idea in Jamesville of exhibiting horology by means of a live model. Modeling in the island window of the store, she displays the superior qualities of the stockings which she advertises, at times getting so rough in her treatment of them that one marvels more at their cast from substance than the glossy wave of her bobbed hair.

The exhibit will be repeated daily and evenings, Friday and Saturday.

PUNISHED OFFICIAL
FOR DRAFT WORK

Garey Bill Aimed Solely at
Maj. Fitzpatrick and His War Work.

Madison.—Governor Blaine has only to sign the Garey bill, passed by both houses of the legislature, to abolish the state board of education. This act will mean the end of the state department created by the 1915 legislature to study educational needs in Wisconsin and to act as a check on expenditures of the various educational institutions.

Dr. Edward A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the board and one of the leading educators of the country, will leave the state service on July 1, as a result of the passage of the bill which had the endorsement of Governor Blaine. Dr. Fitzpatrick has been one of the outstanding leaders in the development of the state education in Wisconsin.

Throughout the fight against the board of education, an attack was directed on the secretary of the board because he directed the administration of the draft law in Wisconsin. His work in this connection is said to have brought praise to the state because of the efficiency of his administration. The LaFollette members said that they were opposed to persons who were connected with the last war.

It was during the first term of Governor Philipp that the state board of education was created to act as a buffer between the various educational departments of the state government. Since that time the board has aided in holding down expenditures of these departments, and has investigated the school problems of the state.

Dr. Fitzpatrick was actively interested in the contest that preceded the defeat of C. P. Cary as superintendent of public instruction. He supported John Callahan who defeated Mr. Cary.

The present secretary has not yet announced the work he will enter upon leaving state service. He intends to arrange the work of his department so that it may be transferred when the time comes for closing its doors.

It is believed that the Governor will sign the Garey abolishing bill within the next few days.

For Real Service
Buy Red Crown
The High-Grade Gasoline

Gasoline Service is expressed in terms of mileage. When you buy 10 gallons of gasoline, in reality you are buying 150 miles of service, if you get 15 miles to the gallon.

Gasoline becomes a propelling force only when you cause it to vaporize and mix it with air.

The service which you receive is in exact ratio to the manner in which the gasoline vaporizes. Red Crown vaporizes to the last drop.

That's why there is no waste. Red Crown has a Perfect Chain of boiling Point Fractions, adjusted so as to vaporize at just the correct temperature to produce instant starting Winter or Summer—a quick pickup—smooth acceleration—tremendous sustained pulling power—racing speed if you want it and a maximum of mileage.

All of which is summed up in two words, "Real Service".

The World's Best-Loved Song
"Home, Sweet Home!" best loved of all songs, an air which has been well described as a jewel that "sparkles forever on the forefinger of Time"—"Home, Sweet Home!" was first sung on May 8, 1823. No one at that performance of "Clari, the Maid of Milan," in Convent Garden, London, could have divined the place in the affections of men reserved for that modest tune. No one could have imagined that that performance was destined to become a historic occasion. Within five years the song's fame had encircled the globe. Today, a century after, music-lovers observe the centenary of the "first performance on any stage" of John Howard Payne's song.
